Dear applicant,

this compilation of institutions to apply for funding is not meant to be complete. However, it provides an overview of institutions relevant to the Master of Arts in Social Work as a Human Rights Profession (MA-SWHR) and Master of Arts in Intercultural Conflict Management (MA-ICM). Please note that the information is taken from the original website sources and changes might have occurred. Some of them are in German language. This does not automatically mean that only citizens from Germany may apply. In this case, I would suggest that you contact those organizations via e-mail.

Keep in mind their deadlines! Some deadlines are as early as September of the preceding year. Therefore, you should consult their websites well in advance to your application to find out if you meet the criteria.

The following text is an example that may be considered as a standard procedure with many of the foundations ("Stiftungen"). This might help you getting organized before starting your research.

Procedure for "Stiftungen":

First, write a short letter stating who you are and why you are interested in their specific aims (see their homepage to check their agenda and whether this fits your own) and why you want to study the MA-ICM or MA-SWHR. Remember to ask for their application forms and their deadlines as early as possible, even without being accepted to our graduate program. If a German embassy or a representative of the foundation you are interested in is near you, get their advice. Normally, they prefer foreign students who are already in Germany. If you apply from abroad, they will only consider your application after our official confirmation and/or offer of enrolment. You will also have to explain to them that you do not need the TestDaF/DSH German exam for studying the MA-SWHR or MA-ICM since this is an English language program.

Important Note:

We would like to inform all our applicants that the Alice Salomon Hochschule Berlin does not offer the "Deutschlandstipendium" to students in non-consecutive Master's programs including the MA-SWHR and MA-ICM.

We wish you good luck with your scholarship application!

World University Service (WUS)

- Africa, Asia, Latin America -

The World University Service (WUS) supports foreign students who have already shown a commitment to social or development policy issues in their home country or current residence. A solidary awareness for, interest in and commitment to the development and implementation of grassroot-oriented work following completion of the degree form an essential basis for a scholarship award decision. Applicants will receive extendible one-year scholarships which either serve to allow study for a first German degree or for a postgraduate degree, depending on the applicant's previous educational level.

The scholarship is comprised of a basic scholarship payment, a health insurance payment and reimbursement of travel costs to and from Germany (return trip). More information on the respective website.

Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH

(German Society for International Cooperation)

Through exchange and scholarship programs, the GIZ offers young people the possibility – during or after their education – to collect worldwide work experience and to experience foreign working environments and cultures at first hand. The GIZ is not of the “classic” institutions that allocate scholarships. Nevertheless, you might be interested in getting informed about potential opportunities on their webpage.
